...erman Camp In Holland ...as Ghastly For Jews

...ish Jews who could possibly be ...ded up in Holland were ...ed to the Vught camp, says ...e New York Times. Accusations ...e trumped up against them ...ost they had received forbidden ...ckages from the outside world, ...ed theft from fellow-pris...rs or plotted to escape from ...e escape-proof camp, which, in ...dition to its electrified barbed ...ire and constant sentry patrols, ...as also guarded by vicious dogs.

Sometimes the dogs were turned ...ose on the Jews, but more often ...e Jews were shot and their ...odies burned. Violation of young ...ewish women by prison wardens ...as a common occurrence.

Many of the Netherland Jews ...rought to this camp were re...erved for an even worse fate ...fter having been kept there a ...hile they were sent to Poland—...ost oblivion.

The internees got plenty of ...ork to do, musical chorus or cook...ng and attending the sick.

The Phillips radio factory, big...est of its kind in Europe, which ...as compelled to turn out wireless ...nd radio apparatus for the Ger...ans, had small jobs to be done ...y the internees. The Phillips man...gement did so more as an act of ...ope than as an attempt to ...ep up production, because the ...ews who performed these ...obs not only received money in ...ieu but also better treatment. ...e Germans started building ...e camp in 1941. They kept en...rging it and completed it in 1942. ...ll sorts of atrocities are to be heard ...f, the worst politician committed by ...e SS (Black Guard) officials, ...ho had charge ...

Urging that "several hundred ...ased Palestinians" be given ...ms to put down the small band ...f Zionist terrorists, Dr. Na...um Goldmann, member of the ...ecutive committee of the Jewish ...ency for Palestine, declared ...hat the problem could be solved ...more quickly in this way than in ...ntrusting it entirely to the hands of ...British Middle East police.

Dr. Goldmann, who is also chair...an of the World Jewish Congress ...ho just returned from a six-week ...isit in Palestine, to the New York ...ffices of the Jewish Agency at ...11 Madison Avenue. With him ...as his companion in the trip ...rom Palestine, Dr. Bernard Jo...eph, legal and political adviser ...o the agency.

Both men agreed that the vast ...ajority of Palestinians "abhor" ...he terroristic acts of the Stern...ists, who have been accused of ...lotting connection to kill the late ...ord Moyne, British Resident ...inister in the Middle East. Dr. ...oldmann pointed out that most of ...he Jews of the country believe ...hat this and other acts of terror...sm will have an adverse effect on ...he realization of their ambition—...he creation of a Palestinian com...onwealth.

"In the long run," he continued, ...it will be far easier to finance ...he carrying of guns by several ...undred young Palestinians so ...hat they themselves may deal ...ith the Sternists. The British ...ay can up against a stone wall ...hen they attempt to find out the ...ffices of the Sternists. It is much ...ore likely that Palestinians who ...ave been authorized to go after ...hem will be able to discover their ...ilking places and their plans."

...It is to be hoped that the ...proper directions will be given by ...the government in London to the ...local officials which will make it ...possible for Palestine Jewry, in ...co-operation with the government ...authorities, to do what is necess...ary to that end.

"It would be dangerous, how...ever, to ignore the fact that the ...hateful and criminal acts of these ...half-crazed youths reflect the ten...sions produced by the anomalous ...political situation in Palestine and ...the urgent need for an early ...and just solution of the fu...ture of the Jewish national ...home. Nor should these individual ...acts of terrorism be allowed to ...eclipse the splendid contribution ...which Palestine Jewry, rallying to ...Great Britain in her hour of need, ...have made and are making to the ...war effort."

Jewish Brigade Includes Men Of 53 Nations

The Jewish Brigade of the Brit...ish Army, made up of men of ...fifty-three nationalities, almost ...all of whom have a personal score ...to settle with the Nazis, is under...going stiff combat training be...neath the blazing Egyptian sun, ...it may now be revealed.

Practically all men in the bri...gade, commanded by Brigadier ...Ernest F. Benjamin, a profes...sional soldier for twenty-five ...years, are highly educated. Benja...min's driver holds a doctorate of ...laws from the University of ...Prague, and one of his corporals ...was a captain in the Austrian ...army before the Anschluss. Pro...fessional men in the brigade range ...from archeologists to bacterial...ogists.

Most of the personnel are refu...gees who fled occupied Europe ...and settled in Palestine. All, with ...the exception of Benjamin, speak ...Hebrew, and about half under...stand English. Orders are issued ...in English and are translated.

Only two non-Jewish officers ...remain in the brigade and they ...are awaiting replacement. These ...officers said many of the soldiers ...who formerly were pioneer troops ...show great enthusiasm for the ...combat training.

The men are given time on Fri...day and Saturday to attend religi...ous services. They receive regular ...British Army rations since the ...supply of kosher foods is not yet ...regularly received.

BRITISH CHIEF RABBI SAYS JEWRY NOT RESPONSIBLE FOR PALESTINE TERRORISTS

Under the heading "Terrorists in Palestine," the following letter from the Chief Rabbi was printed in The London Times:

"Sir,—You published this morning the announcement issued by the Officer Administering the Palestine Government and by the Commander-in-Chief, Middle East Forces, warning the Jewish community in Palestine that the acts of the terrorists can only 'bring shame and dishonour to the Jewish people as a whole.'

The wording of the warning is most unfortunate. No responsible Jew anywhere endorses the senseless crimes of the terrorists; and yet the Palestine Authorities seem to hold every Jew — the humblest as well as the highest, in and out of Palestine — accountable for them. Moreover, they assert that these crimes bring dishonour upon the Jewish people as a whole. This is the first time to my knowledge that a British administration anywhere has condemned an entire people for the acts of a repudiated few. Let me recall that the Mufti of Jerusalem was the acknowledged leader of the Palestine Arabs. He admittedly more than endorsed, he directed the Arab terrorist campaign in Palestine, and has now for some years been in Berlin collaborating with Hitler. But no official British representative has ever declared that his misdeeds bring shame and dishonour to the Arab people as a whole."

AUSTRALIA OPPOSES SEPARATE JEWISH SETTLEMENT

A committee of Commonwealth officials has advised the Australian Government to refuse permission for the establishment of a Jewish settlement in the Kimberley division of northwestern Australia. It is known that Prime Minister John Curtin and other senior Ministers disapprove of the establishment of large foreign communities anywhere in Australia feeling that they would tend to create racial and foreign-speaking minorities.

There will be no discrimination against Jewish immigrants, but all immigrants will be settled under conditions encouraging them to merge with the native-born population.

Fighting Rabbi Is Famous As Maquis Leader

Rabbi Kopelowitz, of Toulouse, a son-in-law of Chief Rabbi Avigdor Amiel, of Tel-Aviv, Palestine, was among the organizers of the Jewish militant underground movement and a leading figure among the French Maquis. The Rabbi was known to the Maquis by the nom de guerre of Ronny Kopel.

He helped to organize the well-known "Armée Juive," and assisted many Jews to escape from concentration camps and to cross into Switzerland and Spain. His services in this respect were facilitated by his appointment by the Vichy [illegible] Rabbi L. Matzkanin, who was with the Army of Liberation.

In the earliest days of the resistance movement there were only six fighters in Lyons, all of them Jews. Later two of the three regional chiefs in Lyons were Jews. They did much to avenge their comrades who had fallen into the hands of the Nazis. In 1943 the young Jewish giant, Simon Fried, was wounded in a skirmish with German troops. He continued to fight, emptying two revolvers. In the end he was caught. The Germans kept him till he was well, then cut off his head. Jean took part in a vengeance raid on July 15, the anniversary of the day in 1942 when Jewish women were deported en masse. As a reprisal five members of the resistance attacked and killed ten Germans.

The Germans made much of the Jewish participation in the resistance movement, and staged a trial of 24 Paris Jews last March. Every trick of propaganda was used by the Nazis in connection with the trial in an attempt to discourage the French from joining the Jewish Resistance Movement. Most of the 24 accused were students and fighters. All of them were shot.

Other strong fighting formations were established by the Jewish Bionistes and by the Eclaireurs Israelites. Thousands of Jews served in the Maquis, including a company of 200 men which recently liberated the town of Castre. One of the Jewish leaders, Gilbert Lewy, was killed in this fight, and the commander, Robert Gamzon, head of the Eclaireurs, was hurt in a road accident shortly afterwards and is now in a plaster cast.

It is believed that the first person to be killed on the barricades on Liberation Day in Paris was a Jew named David Marofsky.

In Paris, the leader of Jewish resistance was a 70-year-old Jew, M. Halperin, representative of the World Ort. The body of which he is Chairman is known as the Comité d'Unité et Défense des Juifs de France.

This Committee co-ordinated the activities of Jews of all kinds of religious and political opinion—Zionists, Socialists, Communists, among others. They played an effective part in the underground movement. Hundreds of young Jews, men and women, joined the Maquis and were active saboteurs.

A London Jewish Chronicle correspondent's informant recently saw in Paris an underground hideout in which were stacked

Inquiry Urged Into Palestine Administration And Mandate Activities

Lord Strabolgi sent a message to a British United Palestine Appeal meeting in Welwyn Garden City, in the course of which he said:

"The recent wave of violence in Palestine, this time from a small minority of fanatical young Jews, was condemned by all right-thinking people, Jew and Gentile alike. At the same time it was necessary to look deep into the causes of this unhappy development.

"There had been two violent outbreaks of Arab violence and a specific campaign of murder and intimidation which had gone on for years before the war. The leaders of these rebellions were in close touch with, and subsidised by, the German Nazis and Italian Fascists before and during this war. Many British soldiers and innocent civilians had been done to death. The answer of successive British Governments was to try to appease the rebels by whittling down the terms of the Mandate, repudiating in part our policy and solemn pledge, and finally producing the notorious White Paper, which would have made the creation of a Jewish National Home impossible and denied Palestine to the survivors of Nazi massacre as a refuge.

"Everyone at Westminster who knew the real facts realized that this policy was only temporary and, in any case, unworkable. It was only a question of the right time to return to the original policy of the Balfour Declaration. But the administration in Palestine was carried on as if the British [illegible]

Lord Strabolgi went on to urge enough. There should be a thorough-going inquiry into the police administration and certain other aspects of the activities of the Mandate Government. We should hasten the inevitable declaration of the new policy in Palestine and, above all, open its gates to Jewish immigration from the tortured countries of Europe."

The U.S., Great Britain and Russia must share responsibility for the final settlement of the Palestine problem, Dr. Abba Hillel Silver of Cleveland, Ohio, told 600 delegates to the thirtieth annual convention of Hadassah, Women's Zionist organization of America.

Charging that the British Colonial Office consistently sacrificed Jewish rights in a futile attempt to appease the Arabs, Dr. Silver, co-chairman of the American Zionist Emergency Council, questioned Great Britain's ability to solve the problem without aid from the United States and, perhaps, Russia.

Emphasizing that Palestine is not a British colony and that Great Britain merely acts as a trustee under a mandate from fifty-two nations, Dr. Silver declared that the major powers should "push aside the tangled web of disingenuousness, legal shuffling, and obstructionism and not only proclaim a Jewish commonwealth but extend to it that material aid and credit which they will undoubtedly extend to their associates to assist them in building [illegible]

Jewish Delegates Meet

The National Conference on Palestine in Chicago, adopt an eight-point program for Palestine and Jewish refugee problems.

The action came after James G. McDonald, chairman of the President's Committee on Political Refugees, condemned what he called half-way measures undertaken by both the League of Nations and the Intergovernmental Committee for Refugees.

He said that the leading Governments represented in the League and on the Committee never made the solution of the refugee problem a major objective and that "they have yet to demonstrate that they are seriously determined to use the committee to carry out a comprehensive program."

Mr. McDonald declared that he had come to the "inescapable conclusion" that "on the record Palestine offers incontestably the primary hope for the solution of the problem of Jewish refugees" because only in Palestine "will most of these feel that they have returned home."

"President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill, Marshal Stalin and General de Gaulle, if he should also be present, should be urged to place the future of Palestine on the agenda of their projected forthcoming meeting," he said. "Nothing less than an agreement among the four great powers interested in the Middle East can lay the basis for a real Palestine settlement."

Asserting that the great powers must be made to understand that the tragedy of the refugees constitutes a major problem in the planning and preparation for permanent peace, Mr. MacDonald urged that the Intergovernmental Committee for Refugees be strengthened and provided with the necessary funds to carry on its task of aiding the resettlement overseas of many hundreds of thousands of refugees who cannot return home.

Palestine, including Transjordania, should be opened to Jewish immigration "limited only by the absorptive capacity of the area," he stated.

The eight-point program, as adopted by the conference, was as follows:

Unrestricted Jewish immigration to Palestine.

The right of Jews to buy land in Palestine on the same basis as all other residents.

The transplanting of hundreds of Jews who will desire and need to go to Palestine, which must

AT THE SERVICEMEN'S CENTRE IN MONTREAL

When the time comes for a party, the Servicemen's Centre in Montreal blossoms out royally under ingenious planning, supervised by Miss Diana Herscovitch, programme chairman. She is in charge of preparations for activities on Sunday, Monday, Tuesday, and Thursday nights.

Sunday nights are usually arranged as starred events for the final touch to a week-end leave. Hallowe'en, now a pleasant memory, had mantles of crepe-paper warning the wary as the witching hour drew near. The lounge downstairs was screened in fluted black and orange; mysterious gleaming faces appeared over the lamps. There were apples to bob for, and paper bags to burst with a bang. A malevolent witch with menacing eyes and a pointed nose was hidden until the evil moment came for her to take her featured place.

Miss Hammerwich arranges these party evenings of fun and [illegible] for the Servicemen's Centre of the Canadian Jewish Congress. For so many men in uniform these occasions are reminders of similar celebrations when they were with their families and boyhood friends.

Hebrew University Rector To Visit Here

Prof. Leon Roth, distinguished scholar, and Rector of the Hebrew University, in Palestine, from 1940 to 1944 will arrive in America some time this month. The object of Prof. Roth's visit is to make a study at close range of some of the leading American universities, with special reference to academic administration and methods of instruction.

Prof. Roth in addition will try during his visit to establish a closer cultural contact between America and the Hebrew University. Prof. Roth holds that it is an error to believe that the Hebrew University either as an institution of higher learning or as a centre of Jewish spiritual life is able to maintain itself in isolation. He says "it should aim at penetrating and being penetrated by the educated Jewish world, and in this way it could become what should become, an asset to its supporters and thus make a direct contribution to the maintenance of world Jewry. The Societies of Friends of the Hebrew University throughout the world should constitute living channels through which the spiritual lifestream could course—not only from Jerusalem outward, but also to Jerusalem inward."

Prof. Roth was born in London in 1896 and received both his Masters and Doctorate degrees at Oxford. In 1928 he was appointed lecturer in philosophy at Manchester University. He comes from a distinguished family, best known of whom is his brother, Dr. Cecil Roth, Anglo-Jewish historian. He is the holder of the Achad Ha'am chair of philosophy at the Hebrew University since 1938.

In 1936 Prof. Roth represented Palestine Jewry and the Hebrew ... at the ... Spain of the 800th anniversary of the birth of Maimonides, famous Jewish philosopher-physician. There he delivered a Hebrew address which was believed to have been the first Hebrew speech heard publicly in Spain since the expulsion of 1492.

Prof. Roth's publications include special studies in the history of thought as well as contributions to more general problems. He has published various volumes on the general significance of the Cartesian philosophy and on Spinoza. His works include translations into Hebrew of some of Aristotle's Metaphysics and Politics, editions of Hebrew versions of Philosophical classics from the Greek, French and English and an anthology of Jewish Ethical and Religious thought from the Apocrypha to the 20th Century. He has produced for the first time in the Hebrew language an original guide to the study of Greek philosophy.

Like Prof. Bergmann, the first Rector of the Hebrew University who visited America in 1947, Prof. Roth will address groups of scholars in his special field at some of the American universities and receptions to be arranged for him in a number of ...

THE fight against V.D. is a family affair . . .

A laughing couple, dodging showers of rice . . . fireside . . . garden . . . chubby babies . . .

These are scenes we know and like, because they're part of our lives . . . because they spell happiness . . . contentment.

But we know that these things don't "just happen." They have to be worked for, lived for. Protected, too, because of ever-present dangers which may spoil them.

Venereal Disease is a spoiler. In a cold, relentless way it can kill interests, rob the home of its breadwinner, cripple, destroy. These are not mere possibilities. THEY HAPPEN . . . RIGHT HERE IN CANADA!

But, these things should never happen. They can be prevented.

Young men and women can safeguard their future happiness together by making sure before marriage that V.D. will not blight their plans. A medical examination, including a blood test for syphilis, is a precaution no couple can afford to pass up.

The expectant mother, too, may know for sure that her baby will be all she dreamed of. Syphilis in the expectant mother rarely shows outward signs, and it is no respecter of persons. An early check-up by her doctor, including a blood test, is a most essential, yet simple, first step in protecting her baby's health.

Nor must the breadwinner neglect his part. The security of the home depends upon his ability to work regularly and efficiently. Unsuspected syphilis, striking in middle life, may make the head of the home unable to provide for his family. It is wise to KNOW FOR SURE in time. Industrial medical examinations should include a routine supplemental blood test.

A blood test should not be looked upon as something unusual. It should be regarded for what it is . . . a normal safeguard of health, security and happiness.

The Cornerbrook Jewish Community In Newfoundland Outdoes Itself In Giving

By H. M. Caiserman, Of Montreal,
General Secretary, Canadian Jewish Congress

Since my first visit to Cornerbrook in Newfoundland over a year ago, the small Jewish community of fourteen families changed very favourably in a number of respects.

The synagogue, which was only a project at the beginning of last year, was completed in September 1943. It is the second one to be built in Newfoundland, a structure of wood and concrete, thirty-five by forty-five, and has two stories and a finished basement suitable for entertainments and Hebrew School. The building committee, which brought the $15,000 project to success, was: Arthur Cohen, chairman, Leo Kaplow, and Morris Swirsky, Morris Gordon, and I. Levine. It is interesting to note that the chairman of this building committee was also chairman for the building of the first synagogue in St. John's years ago.

The first celebration after the opening of the synagogue was a reception given to twenty-eight Jewish servicemen from Canada and United States, stationed in the neighbourhood who came for religious services.

When I was in Cornerbrook last year the community had no Hebrew teacher, and some of the parents were teaching their children to the best of their ability. I discovered that Leon Kaplow, secretary of the community and a successful business man, was a professional teacher; that Mrs. M. Neiman and Mrs. A. Cohen who had attempted to teach the children in 1939, were also capable of teaching; and that Mrs. S. Miller, formerly of Montreal, and Mrs. M. Swirsky were qualified to assist. I therefore suggested that a committee consisting of these people be formed to look after Jewish educational needs of the community, and this was done. During the winter classes were held daily and fifteen children of school age received a regular Hebrew education without a professional teacher. The community is now eager to find a capable teacher.

Last year when the American Chaplain, M. M. Mathews, of Brooklyn, N.Y., addressed the Cornerbrook Hebrew Congregation and thirty Jewish members of the armed forces who were guests of the community during the high holidays, Ernest Swirsky (a businessman) acted as the Chazan and layman Rabbi.

Ben Levine, a merchant in Cornerbrook, donated a new "Paroches" to the synagogue in the name of his mother, thus completing the ornamentation of the Case in which the Scrolls of the Law stand in the east side of the synagogue.

During the Passover Holiday boys from the Armed Forces stationed near Cornerbrook attended Synagogue services. They were entertained and received warm hospitality in the Jewish homes of the community.

The celebration of each Jewish holiday was planned as a project and the children benefited educationally at each function. During the year the Rink Committee of West Cornerbrook, a non-sectarian committee under the chairmanship of Arthur Cohen, gave the town its first outdoor rink. A number of Jewish merchants such as Leo Kaplow, M. Neiman, and Arthur Cohen, are members of the General Merchants' Association, and their experience and advice are appreciated and contribute to communal relations. A committee in which Arthur Cohen acted as secretary brought about the formation of the town of West Cornerbrook (in which all business and residences owned by Jews is concentrated), inspired the adoption of the Shop Act for the "Humber District;" and organized the Bay of Island Motor Association, all of public interest.

Though the community is small, the enlistments in the Active Forces are of good proportion and the members participate in all the War Efforts of the community. Sgt. Morris Cohen is serving in France. Mrs. H. Breuer's brother was shot down over Germany and is now a prisoner of war; Jack Marshall (brother of Mrs. A. Cohen) participated in the invasion of Normandy where he was wounded, and P.O. Tommy Marshall (a brother of Jack Marshall) was killed in a flying accident in Canada, after flying 2,000 hours in the air.

The sense of responsibility of the small community to Jewish causes is evident in its exemplary philanthrophy. This year Cornerbrook is raising about $6,000, half of which is to be given for the budget of all Jewish requirements of the community and Zionism; and the other half to the United Jewish Refugee and War Relief Agencies, War Efforts Committee and the Canadian Jewish Congress. (The community is affiliated with the Canadian Jewish Congress).

Genuine interest of the Cornerbrook Jewish community in Jewish affairs and Jewish life is manifested by the fact that [illegible] in every part of the Dominion would give in the same proportion as Cornerbrook our campaign would result in an eight million dollar total!

I realize that considering every sixteen families in Canada as business firms is a fallacy and that therefore the sum of eight million dollars is extravagant, but even if the number of business firms and persons with substantial income is reduced to only one quarter of the above calculations, the amount Canadian Jews ought to contribute on the basis of the Cornerbrook contribution for Congress and its arms is about two million dollars per year.

It is true that a score of small Jewish communities in Canada contribute at the same rate as Cornerbrook Jews do. Their example should stimulate every Jew in our Dominion to a new measure of giving so that the extraordinary situation created by the Allied advances in Europe can be taken advantage of fully. We must utilize every possible opportunity of rescue and relief to save the remnant of European Jewry and to help thousands of refugees in dozens of countries.

Maria, one year old, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. Karmish, 3288 Dundas Street West, Toronto; granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. Shrom; and of Mrs. H. Karmish.

MEN WHO THINK OF TOMORROW
plan handi-talkies for your use!

TOMORROW'S PRIVATE HANDI-TALKIE . . . Knee-deep in your favorite fishing waters, you can call the camp on your private radio-telephone to let the boys know what the trout are taking. From your car, you can call home to say you're on the way. The handi-talkie will be a marvel of everyday life not only in sports but in every type of business and industry—planned for you by men who think of tomorrow.

WHO, indeed, doesn't look forward to the good things of tomorrow—when peace comes again? Yet we cannot for an instant relax our vigilance—not so long as there is a single armed enemy soldier at large—Nazi or Jap!

• We must fight to the end the battle against waste; we must keep production at its highest pitch; we must salvage fats and waste paper and metals; we must conserve gasoline and rubber; and, above all, we must continue buying and keeping Victory Bonds and War Savings Certificates.

• Does a soldier lay his rifle down when enemy resistance slackens for a moment? No! And no more may we at home withdraw our help by cashing in our Victory Bonds. They represent a pledge to our government and our fighting forces that we will back them to the last. This we must do.

• Let us all be men who think of tomorrow . . . by holding our home front battle lines today!

The statement was issued when the delegation to the conference, which meets in Atlantic City on November 20, called at the British Embassy to discuss problems of the conference with the Earl of Halifax, British Ambassador.

"I desire, on behalf of my colleagues in the British delegation and myself," Mr. Silverman said, "to express the utter condemnation which we all feel for the murder of Lord Moyne to which young Jews are reported to have admitted. We think the whole world realizes that these crimes are the work of a numerically insignificant group in Palestine. We would only add the hope that His Majesty's Government will not allow these deplorable events to obscure the plain fact that the [illegible] number by the Nazis of [illegible] Jews and the [illegible] Jews from Nazism [illegible] huge piles of arms and ammunition of all types, gathered from the Germans almost entirely by the efforts of Jewish youngsters in their early teens.

Right from the first days of the occupation, the work of rescuing Jews from Nazism began. Thousands were given false identity papers. Later, when the Nazis became aware of this ruse, they took many to their headquarters to examine them for evidence of "Jewishness." Many an unfortunate non-Jew has been destroyed because he was circumcised.

Most dastardly of Nazi practices was the deliberate extermination of the children. In this regard, French solidarity has been great. About 30,000 children have been hidden in the country, and a Catholic priest has been one of the most active figures in this work.

An Allied uniform is greeted with tremendous feeling. A Jew who is free, who is a liberator, is something that has tremendous meaning for Parisian Jews.

Commentaries

By Dr. Harry J. Stern, Rabbi

A Reflex Action To British Callousness

A band of terrorists, known as the Stern Group has been harassing the Palestine administration and the Jewish community alike for some months now. It is claimed that assassination of Lord Moyne in Egypt was perpetrated by members of this band.

The Jewish Agency of Palestine has declared war on the terrorists responsible for acts of violence. The Jewish Agency has suggested that arms be put in the hands of the Palestine inhabitants so that they may help in the capture or destruction of this group since the police forces of the administration have been unable to cope with the assassins.

All sections of Jewry condemn the terrorists of Palestine and their acts of violence. Jews everywhere view with horror these disturbers of Jerusalem's peace and Zion's tranquility.

But the Irgun and Sternist terrorists constitute a mere handful, stemming from a group that was thrown out of the Zionist Organization ten years ago. It is therefore unfair for a few leaders of Britain to speak in language of a kind that makes the Jewish community of Palestine responsible for this terrorism. Jews everywhere regard the terrorists as traitors.

However, for the peace of Zion and in the cause of truth, it must be stated that Jewish terrorism is nothing but a reflex action to British callousness in keeping out of Palestine the Jewish refugees who might yet be saved from death. These terrorists must be judged as afflicted, men driven crazy by suffering, by the cruelties which have descended upon their dear ones in the hell of Nazi Europe.

The policy of the White Paper; the exclusion of refugees from the Jewish homeland; the death of these fleeing for their lives upon steamships such as the Patria and the Struma; the prejudicial policies of the Palestine Administration of trying Jews for possession of arms they have had to bear in self-defence; the [illegible] given by the mandatory to Jewish Palestine as [illegible] this Near East; and British suppression [illegible] these are the things which are help[illegible] and have swept over Eretz Israel. He is the case Jewish statesmen who must now speak to Britain, the historic friend of Israel, and demand that justice be meted out to the Jew, that Palestine in truth be the Jewish homeland, the Jewish democratic commonwealth. And let there be no false impression that the Jews of Palestine are engaged in a "civil war." The Jews of Palestine and the Jews of the world stand united now more than ever in the cause of Eretz Israel.

Book Month

The Jewish Book Council of America calls upon Jews to observe these weeks up to December 10 as Jewish Book Month for the purpose of initiating sustained interest in Jewish books throughout the year. The immediate ends to be realized include: the stimulation of an abiding zeal for knowledge among young and old, the development of a Jewish cultural atmosphere in homes; the enrichment of educational programs of clubs, study circles and discussion groups, and the enlargement of book collections, institutional libraries, reading rooms, and private homes.

There is no gainsaying that after the destruction of the Jewish State by the Romans, Israel succeeded in thriving as a people not in any particular geographical locality, but in the realm of books. As a result, Israel's kingdom has been the kingdom of the mind. The Jew therefore throughout centuries has loved the book. For verily the book gave life to Israel, even as Israel in turn gave life to the book. Israel became profoundly attached to the "sefer" with a passion unlike that found among any other nation.

Even as the Jew battled for his life, so the Jewish book engaged in combat on the battlefield. Even as the Jew was burned at the stake, so were Jewish books confiscated and burned in the market-places of mediaeval European cities. One need only turn the pages of history to convince himself of "The Battle of Jewish Books." For example, what more tragic fate could have befallen any book than the treatment accorded that veritable library of Jewish books known as the Talmud?

Yes, the Pfefferkorns, the Frankists, the Eisenmengers thrust their swords at the Talmud. Yes, though Philip the Fair and Pope Julius III ordered wholesale burnings of the Talmudic works, yet the miracle of it all is that the Talmud, even as the people that created it, outlived its tormentors and persecutors.

Why need we dwell at length with the tragedy of the Jewish book in past centuries when in our own day "the burning of books" has again become common sport? Recall the outrageous burning of books by the Nazi Germans but a few years ago! All the more then that we Jews in these days should hold in reverence the printed word of truth. All the more we must learn to realize the old rabbinic teaching that mightier than the sword is the book. We, who are the people of the book, managed because of the book, to outlive those who wielded the sword against us.

How profoundly meaningful, therefore, are the words of that great poem of Bialik, "If You Would Know" (the secret of Israel's immortality). Go to the synagogue where, over faded pages, "scarce shrivelled Jews with parched and withered faces, Jews of Exile burdened with its yoke, who lose their pain," find their hope and courage in the pages of the Jewish book. Jews of today, if they are to recapture beauty and inwardness in their lives, must taste the sweetness of Jewish books, must realize the power of Jewish books.

"Sometimes when people censure me,
I call them without rudeness
That for what it cost me to be free,
I might have had an easier."

The fur is getting ready to fly in advance of the second session of the American Jewish Conference which will be held in Pittsburgh, Penn., December 3-6. This session will have to decide whether the Conference is to continue, through a new program, or whether it is to die, and there is a movement on foot to reorganize it as an Assembly which will satisfy the need of American Jewry for a central responsible organ of opinion and action. As part of the plan to form an Assembly bloc before the Conference meeting, Joshua Trachtenberg, a Reform Rabbi who lives in Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, and has a store of good, sound common sense, has prepared a pamphlet of proposals for action which may turn out to be important in the development of national coordination between the Jewish communities. This column will give a sort of outline of it here.

The American Jewish Conference is almost two years old and dissatisfaction with it is widespread, not because the Conference let the American Jewish public down, as many think, but because that public, fed up with the anarchy and ineffectuality of a set-up in which autonomous national agencies act independently of each other, and of public opinion, expected something other than it got. The public expected democratic unification because the elections were misleading, giving the false impression of being based on a real public constituency. The public got, instead, the American Jewish Conference which was created by the national organizations and never came to represent anything else.

The Conference is being run by representatives of the national organizations who think not in communal terms but in organizational terms. Their main objective is to preserve their organizational autonomy, and so it is their business to fight against the establishment of a higher authority. Thus, such a Conference cannot become a representative body on behalf of the community. It could not have any scope because the national organizations would not admit within the purview of the Conference the problems which they were taking care of. To do that would be to admit that the Conference was a superior authority. But the national organizations don't intend to do that. They mean to keep the control for themselves if they can.

The American Jewish Conference has no function, not because it couldn't have but because those in control of it don't want it to have. This column has often called that kind of recurring organization, of whatever name, an artifice, a hollow shell, or a sounding board, at any rate an organization which could not come alive because of an obstructionism which its organizers, in their cynicism, took for granted in the first place as part and parcel of the whole. Rabbi Trachtenberg observes that the Conference was conceived as a functionless body and was not intended to survive the first session. The reason it did survive was failure of nerve in the face of the enthusiasm evoked by the Conference idea.

[illegible] to give it an inherent authority as a permanent instrument for community thinking and action. The problem comes down to: how to restore the primary allegiance and support of the Jewish public to the community so that, in a conflict the community can prevail; and how to organize so that this support can become effective.

Efforts in this direction have failed because it was assumed that the basis of organization is the national community, whereas the national community is the end-product. The basic unit is the local community. The organized local communities are the people. Their representatives receive the power to enforce through the organized support they get from the community. An Assembly can be real only when it is a union of organized local communities.

American Jewry is ripe for the Community Council movement which, despite the opposition and often open hostility of the older, fractional groups, has minimized competitive activities, coordinated local services, and created a community spirit which achieves an effective unity even in the presence of private loyalties. The modern trend is distinctly in this direction and the Jews of America may be said to be committed to the principle of central, democratic local community organization.

The Community Council movement has produced a new leadership with practical experience in community organization, and with a communal point of view and loyalty. It provides the organized mass constituency and responsible local support which an Assembly must have. From thinking local communities comes the challenge to the wilfulness of autonomous national agencies. A democratic national organization composed of popularly elected representatives of organized communities, in other words an Assembly, is the logical outcome.

The real issue at the session of the American Jewish Conference will be the future of the Conference. The division will be Assembly versus anti-Assembly. Rabbi Trachtenberg is leading the movement to remake the Conference with such a proposal as that the national organizations should be invited to participate as observers without voting rights. He thinks the odds are against his plan because the national agencies will muster all their strength against it. But it is inevitable. The time will come. f.i.c.

have the full support of governments of the world.

Abandonment of the 1939 White Paper, which "stabilizes every effort to build the Jewish homeland on stable foundations."

Recognition of the Jewish Commonwealth in Palestine.

Establishment of United Nations funds for resettlement of homeless Jews.

Making available necessary shipping by the United States for that resettlement.

Raising by American Jews of $30,000,000 in 1945 for basic development in Palestine.

Dr. Bernard Joseph, legal adviser for the Jewish (land purchasing) Agency in Palestine, who fought under General Allenby in the first World War, asserted that free immigration to Palestine was the world Jews' greatest need today.

He said that during the past five years "Little Palestine" had brought more succor to persecuted Jews of Europe than all other countries of the world combined.

Dr. Joseph announced that 89,000 Jews had entered Palestine since the outbreak of the present war and that of this number 17,000 had been rescued through underground channels.

GERMAN CAMP

the early days of the camp the bodies of internees who had died of starvation or had been shot out of hand by prison guards or beaten to death were thrown into these pits and burned.

The camp was steadily enlarged and "improved," one "improvement" being the construction of a modern crematory which has two big ovens that still rank with the small of death. Apparently two ovens were not adequate; just outside there is a mobile crematory, a big, black boiler-like affair resembling a steam roller.

There is an unknown in the crematory. It is a small, bare, brick-walled room with a granite table. Before cremation the bodies of the victims were dissected on this table, and if their teeth contained gold fillings, the fillings were extracted.

On a plot of grass facing the crematory there is a rough gallows where some of the prisoners were hanged. A victim was made to stand on two small wooden blocks while the noose was fixed around his neck. Then the blocks were removed and the victim dangled, his feet already touching the ground, so he died slowly of strangulation.

In the prison block there are two concrete cells that have no light, heat or ventilation. Even the doors giving admittance to these cells are stripped. These were [illegible] chambers where death came not from gas, but from suffocation.

Congress Keeps Record Of Thousands Of Canadian Jews In Service

There are sufficient Jews in the Canadian services to form a full-strength division if they were all transferred to the army, according to figures of the War Efforts Committee of the Canadian Jewish Congress.

The Jewish War Efforts Committee says that as of September 1, 1944, there were 9269 Jewish men and women in the army, 5301 in the Royal Canadian Air Force, and 485 in the Royal Canadian Navy. These figures do not include the Canadian Jewish men serving in the British, American, Palestine and other United Nations forces.

The War Efforts Committee states that these figures represent an actual count of names were compiled by the Committee through the cooperation of the members of the Jewish community and are considered incomplete as there must be many Jewish men and women serving whose names did not come to their attention.

The Congress maintains a record of the Jewish war effort in the entire dominion, including the names of the Jewish servicemen and women, their biographies, and the civilian war effort. It also publishes "Jews in Uniform", a periodical devoted to the military achievements of Canadian Jews in the present war.

Canada Pays For Its Reluctance To Welcome Refugees

The Vancouver News Herald says:

Two unrelated recent events can be combined to make a picture of considerable significance to all Canadians.

Dimitri J. Tosevic, a Yugoslav writer of considerable prominence, at present living in Canada, has written a book, "Not Nazis, But Germans," which is of considerable importance in the ranks of modern political volumes.

Dr. Hans Emanuel Neuman Enoch has discovered a new "wonder drug" called viricillin, which is a valuable addition to the penicillin type drugs.

These two men have two things in common. They are both European refugees; they are both eminent in their professions.

Mr. Tosevic's bok is a notable addition to Canadian literature. It is definitely Canadian for it is written for Canadians, from a Canadian viewpoint (largely) and makes use of Canadian sources, research and material.

Dr. Enoch's discovery is not Canadian. It is not Canadian because, though he was held under precautionary internment here and on his release wished to remain in this country and carry on his medical research, we would not allow him to do so. We sent him back to Britain. Viricillin — and whatever future discoveries Dr. Enoch makes — are lost to Canada.

There has been a great deal of reluctance to allow refugees of any type to settle in Canada. Mr. Tosevic was lucky to be allowed to stay here. Dr. Enoch was not lucky enough.

Yet either would have been a valuable addition to our country. To refuse to allow men of Dr. Enoch's calibre and ability to remain here and practise their profession [illegible] who did permit [illegible]

[illegible] distinctly high.

If Canadian medicine, Canadian literature, Canadian science, Canadian industry and Canadian art are to progress, these are the people we should welcome to our shores. They will make the best of Canadians.

A Call For Kinship

The American Jewish World, of Minneapolis, Minn., says:

We congratulate Canadian Jewry on its promptness in replying to the appeal "in the name of the martyred dead and the living cadavers" by Dr. Emil Sommerstein, chairman of the Organizing Committee of Polish Jews in the Soviet Union and member of the Polish Committee of National Liberation. Loading no time, the Canadian Jewish Congress and the United Jewish Refugee and War Relief Agencies sent a delegation to the Soviet Ambassador offering their maximum assistance and requesting facilities for the transportation and distribution of the food, clothing, medicaments and other forms of relief which they are prepared to send.

What of United States Jewry?

We have long claimed that we were only waiting for the chance to contact the surviving Jews of Poland, and we were harvesting funds for the day when the ghetto walls would crumble. Now the day has come. But so far U. S. Jewry has been silent, i. e., its leadership or leaderships. The only official reply has come from the American Federation for Polish Jews, which can hardly purport to speak for American Jewry. What of the many other Jewish organizations that rush into print without provocation? Have we wholesome provocation—and yet not a stir.

The American Jewish Joint Distribution Committee, it is reported, is already negotiating with regard to relief. But this is for more than an issue of relief. It is a call for kinship, an appeal for reintegration into the body of the living Jewish people. It deserved a dramatic, immediate reply.

Failure to make such reply should not be blamed upon the Jews of America, the rank and file, who in the five war years contributed $82,000,000 for overseas relief through the United Jewish Appeal alone. The blame reverts upon U. S. Jewry's leaders. How many caucus meetings are needed to draft a reply to Dr. Sommerstein and for the acceptance of his invitation?
